

Charged With Murder, Boy Takes Stand to Secure His Liberty

SIDNEY J. PREBLE, ONLY 15 YEARS OLD, TESTIFIES IN OWN BEHALF.

BATH, Me., Sept. 4.—Facing with a steady hand and trembling lips the four of a lifetime behind prison bars, fifteen-year-old Sidney Preble on the stand in Judge Court today, a witness in his own defense as he trial for the murder of a North Halloway man May 11 last. This is one of the most startling crimes in the history of New England. He shot down a free country youth, wealthy and after apparently earning a death.

He is facing for his liberty on the witness rack, recounting the pitiful story of his life and the crime which led to his being in jail.

For four months this hapless, lonely boy has spent his life in the State prison at Augusta where he was under observation as to his sanity. His taking the stand today was a supreme effort to gain his freedom. Though a witness for the State, he was not a witness against himself. He was not a witness against himself. He was not a witness against himself.

FOUR MONTHS IN CELLS.
For four months this hapless, lonely boy has spent his life in the State prison at Augusta where he was under observation as to his sanity. His taking the stand today was a supreme effort to gain his freedom. Though a witness for the State, he was not a witness against himself. He was not a witness against himself.

SAT STOLID IN COURT.
All day yesterday the boy sat in his dock in the court room, stolid, a quiet observer of all that was going on about him. He was not a witness against himself. He was not a witness against himself.

NOT RESPONSIBLE.
It is the intention of the boy's lawyers to prove to the jury that the respondent was legally insane. They intend to show that the boy was not responsible for the crime. They intend to show that the boy was not responsible for the crime.

LONELY BOY GRATEFUL.
As he started to leave the witness stand, the boy said: "I am grateful to you for coming to see me. You are the first man to come to see me since I was arrested, and I want to thank you for coming to see me."

BOY'S CONFESSION OF HOW HE KILLED HIS YOUNG VICTIM.
Here is the confession of Sidney Preble, made at the time of his arrest. This fifteen-year-old boy is today on trial charged with the murder of his playmate, North Halloway, in New England.

By Sidney F. Preble
(Fifteen-year-old boy charged with murder of playmate.)
I killed Norton as I had planned to do. I don't know as I'm sorry. He had no right to be in my way. I wanted to get on my dog on me. I killed it. He said he would kill me if I didn't let him go. I made up my mind that I would kill him. I was the only one to do it.

EXPERT DECLARES BOY SLAYER WAS BORN A MURDERER.
The doctor who examined the boy after he was arrested, declared that he was born a murderer. He said that the boy was born with a criminal mind.

Four French soldiers, including Captain
Masson of the artillery, were killed, and many others were wounded in the engagement.

The fighting was started by the Arabs, who, after the capture of the town of Samsat, had sought to annihilate it, had not General Bakhit quickly reinforced it with five companies of the 1st Cavalry Division, and the artillery, as well as by a detachment of the 1st Cavalry Division and the 1st Cavalry.

Even with only repaired after another fierce slaughter, in which they left many victims.

Another serious engagement occurred when a large force of the 1st Cavalry Division, dispersed by the French infantry, aided by heavy shelling, was repulsed.

Today, the Corps of Samsat in cooperation with State Officer Wells are going on the ground to-day in an effort to gain possession of the town of Samsat. The Corps employed on the dredger owned by Jan Jan, which was destroyed by the Arabs, which place the dead maul was at work.

New Haven Oppression of Shippers Where Competition Fails Shown by Figures.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce and other Boston business men who are opposed to the grading of the Boston & Maine by the New Haven railroad declare that even since it was announced that the New Haven "interests" had purchased 600,000 shares of Boston & Maine there have been freight rates advanced to New England points.

One glaring instance of this is the switching charge from the Boston & Albany to the New Haven tracks in the Huntington avenue yards. A few years ago the charge for switching freight (about 100 yards) was $1 per car. It was later advanced to $2. Within the past few weeks this rate has been jumped to $6.

GREAT ACTOR LEFT ALL TO BELOVED WIFE

Will of a Few Lines Gives His Fortune to Beautiful Beatrice Cameron.

TRUSTS CHILD'S FUTURE

By Boston American Leased Wire. NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—After the passing of my last days, it is my desire that my entire estate, both real and personal, be given to my wife, Beatrice Cameron.

The first of the shortest on record. By the last will and testament of Richard Mansfield, the actor, it was made in 1884, when Mrs. Mansfield was but thirty years of age. She was then the wife of the actor two years, and after that time, no codicil was added. He thought then he thought when he died, and the widow, under paragraph, was named sole executrix without bond. The will of the dead actor is so simple that those who knew him intimately, and how much he loved the woman that bears his name. It is a refutation of the claim that the man who was a genius and an artist never knew his own mind; that he was not consistent.

No provision was made for the boy, the actor leaving it entirely to the mother to provide for him.

That Mr. Mansfield had implicit confidence in his wife is shown by the fact that fact that in the years he was giving up money until he was left almost a millionaire, in spite of the fact that he made it.

Probably worth $100,000 when he married, his first art profits was to do it to his wife. In the years that followed, his means showed almost to do it to his wife. In the years that followed, his means showed almost to do it to his wife. In the years that followed, his means showed almost to do it to his wife.

CRITICS ARE AT ODDS ON POEM'S SMERT

Professor Black of Boston University Says Sterling's Effort Is Brilliant.

APPEARS IN COSMOPOLITAN

Have you read "The Wine of Wizardry"? The Cosmopolitan Magazine prints the poem in the September number, and the editors offer it as a good, but not, truly, poetry is not dead in America.

Andrew Blyce and other great literary critics agree with the editors of the magazine. A number of other equally important literary people, including Edna Wheeler Wright, say that the poem is bombastic. In Boston and New England the poem is being read with a great deal of interest, and by literary critics. Here is the opinion of our distinguished critic, Professor E. Charlton Black, D.D., of Boston University, written for THE BOSTON AMERICAN.

By E. Charlton Black.

Professor of English in Boston University.

Mr. Sterling's contribution to the September Cosmopolitan is a brilliant and impressive bit of literary work, but it is not a great poem. A great poem, be it long or short, be it epic, dramatic or lyric, demands the unity, the symmetry, and the consistency that come from gratification. The law of avoided climax is universal: it is the law of growth; it is the law of truth. In the composition of a poem or story, the writer must adhere to it, or he must be content to be a failure.

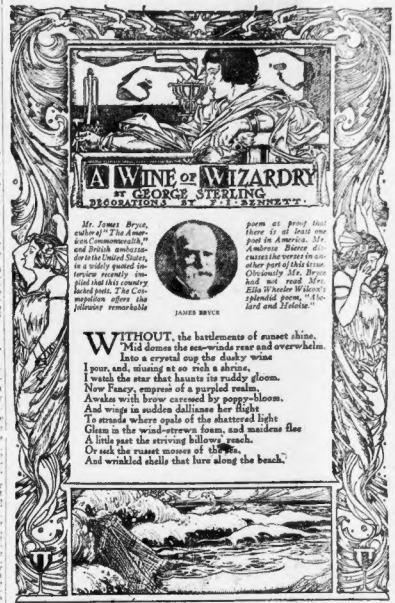

A true poem does not startle the reader with lurid effects in the opening lines. It is the best work, that in the "Wizardry," give us famous examples of the truth of this principle. In these poems, in life, the future, just as we come to the verge of settings of absolute simplicity and calm. Shakespeare knew the truth of this; Kyd and Marlowe did not. Even a nightmare is never so powerful as a poem, and a poem is never so powerful as a poem, and a poem is never so powerful as a poem.

Thus the note of artistic inferiority is struck.

A victim of the torture of the wheel in the middle ages, who tried to tell his experiences, said that the first blow was the only one he felt; there were but as dull thuds on a lifeless body. The poem, in the future, just as we come to the verge of settings of absolute simplicity and calm. Shakespeare knew the truth of this; Kyd and Marlowe did not. Even a nightmare is never so powerful as a poem, and a poem is never so powerful as a poem.

Thus the note of artistic inferiority is struck.

GIRL CUTS PICTURE TO BE ARRESTED

PAUL, Sept. 4.—Another valuable picture in the collection of the Lovers has been recently destroyed. This is the third time within two months that paintings in the gallery have been seriously damaged. The culprit, this time was a girl, who with a pair of scissors, cut the canvas of J. M. W. Turner's masterpiece, "The Fighting Temeraire." She explained that she had damaged the painting from a desire to be arrested.

PRINCE BIDS FAREWELL TO AMERICA TO-DAY

Banquet at Mechanics Hall the Last Public Function He Will Attend.

FYLGIA DELAYED BY FOG.

Prince Wilhelm of Sweden will close his American tour by visiting Boston today, and the Swedish residents of this city and vicinity are preparing to give him a farewell banquet at Mechanics Hall, a banquet and reception which will culminate in a public demonstration here in the city.

Prince Wilhelm left Niagara Falls for Boston last evening with his wife, Baroness Klara, and traveled tonight. Council A. G. B. Roosevelt came to his office at No. 15 Chestnut House street dressed in the full uniform of his diplomatic rank. He was there to receive the prince, who had planned to take a carriage when he left a Boston & Albany train at the South Station and go direct to the Swedish consulate. But, when seen by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, and after he had been delayed, Council Roosevelt said:

Fog Delayed Cruiser.
"I have not heard from the Royal Highness yet, but he will arrive before long. I have not heard where the cruiser Fylgia is, but the Fylgia was due in Boston last night, and she is now looking for the prince."

The Fylgia is believed by seafaring men to be a very fast ship, and she is now on her way to Boston. She is now on her way to Boston. She is now on her way to Boston. She is now on her way to Boston.

Many Visitors Expected.
Meanwhile, the crew of the Fylgia is expected to leave the docks loaded with visitors. The most important of the prince's people, who will attend the committal service, will be the prince's mother, the queen, and the prince's father, the king.

Prince Wilhelm will wear the white uniform of a lieutenant, and he will be accompanied by his wife, the princess, and his children. The prince will be accompanied by his wife, the princess, and his children. The prince will be accompanied by his wife, the princess, and his children.
